Dear Terrence,

NO REFUND WAS ISSUED

We are writing to formally notify you that due to your request ~~and acceptance of a refund~~ after initiating the tribal screening process with the Xi-Amaru Republic, you have been found in violation of our established policies and are hereby declared permanently ineligible to affiliate with our government, in any capacity, now or in the future.

Background:

Upon your initiation of the tribal screening process, you entered into a procedure that is governed by the internal legal framework of the Xi-Amaru Republic, specifically under the jurisdiction of our Indigenous governing authority. This includes a strict no refund policy, which is disclosed and agreed to at the time of submission.

The tribal screening process is a jurisdictional matter that requires internal investigation, eligibility determination, and the assignment of sensitive national resources to each applicant. Your case had already entered administrative processing, triggering a non-refundable procedural commitment.

Violations Committed:

1. Violation of the No Refund Policy

You voluntarily submitted a refund request after initiating the process, despite being made aware that all tribal services are non-refundable once processing begins. This disrupts our legal continuity and compromises the integrity of our internal governmental protocols.

2. Breach of Jurisdictional Respect

Requesting a refund during or after a sovereign screening procedure demonstrates a lack of understanding or refusal to honor the legal jurisdiction of the Xi-Amaru Republic, which operates under its own autonomous framework recognized by international Indigenous rights.

3. Termination of Good-Faith Engagement

Initiating a refund breaks the good-faith engagement necessary between nationals or prospective nationals and our internal governing bodies. It signals an unwillingness to proceed with the honor and respect required for tribal relations.

Consequences:

As a result of these violations, you are permanently barred from obtaining citizenship, representation, affiliation, or any form of national recognition by the Xi-Amaru Republic. This includes denial of access to:

- Tribal Citizenship or Nationality
- Legal Support Services
- Tax Exempt Documentation or Credentials
- Cultural or Ceremonial Participation
- Any future resubmissions for screening or affiliation

Please be advised that your name and record have been added to our internal registry as “permanently ineligible,” and any future attempts to access services will result in automatic denial.

Closing Remarks:

We take these matters with the utmost seriousness to preserve the integrity of our nation and the sacred processes that govern our people. While we extend grace and education to those who seek to learn, we must uphold the standards necessary for nation-building, accountability, and the protection of our Indigenous rights.

Should you have any questions regarding this decision, you may submit a formal inquiry to info@aboriginalministryofjustice.org, understanding that the outcome of this determination is final and non-negotiable.

Sincerely,

Authorized Representative
